STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

There are at present pending before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council about 70 civil appeals and 10 criminal appeals from the judgments, decrees and final orders of the various High Courts in India. Between now and the date on which the new Constitution of India will come into force early next year, the Privy Council is not likely to dispose of more than 20 appeals.

While the flow of civil appeals from all the Indian High Courts, except the High Court of the Judicial Commissioner of Ajmer-Merwara, was stopped on the 1st February, 1948, by the provisions of the Federal Court (Enlargement of Jurisdiction) Act, 1947 (I of 1948), a small number of criminal appeals are admitted from time to time by special leave of His Majesty in Council.

2. In article 308(3) of the Draft Constitution it is proposed that "on and from the date of commencement of the Constitution the jurisdiction of His Majesty in Council to entertain and dispose of appeals and petitions from or in respect of any decree or order of any court within the territory of India, including the jurisdiction in respect of criminal matters exercisable by virtue of His Majesty's prerogative shall cease, and all appeals and other proceedings pending before His Majesty in Council on the said date shall be transferred to, and disposed of by, the Supreme Court." If the position is left to the operation of this Article, as many as 60 appeals will be kept pending before the Privy Council for 5 or 6 months, only to be transferred to the Supreme Court on the date of commencement of the new Constitution, and a small number of appeals, mainly criminal, will be instituted before the Privy Council during the same period with little chance of being finally disposed of by that date.

3. This Bill accordingly proposes that with effect from the 10th October, 1949, the Federal Court should, as an interim measure, be invested with the same jurisdiction to entertain and dispose of appeals and petitions from the judgments, decrees and orders of all High Courts in India as His Majesty in Council has at present, and that the jurisdiction of His Majesty in Council to entertain any new appeals and petitions and to dispose of any pending appeals except those set down for hearing during the next sittings of the Judicial Committee (due to commence on the 12th October, 1949) should cease. All other pending appeals are proposed to be transferred to the Federal Court on the 10th October next.
